Topic	Summary of Discussion/Decision
Feedback from our potential customer was shared with our mentor.	As our mentor was already familiar with our idea we updated him on changes since vlog 1 as well as feedback from our meeting with the RA manager. Some of the guidance Dr. Gelowitz shared with us summarized below: Having a customer is good for capstones but comes with constraints. we don't need to have a customer to proceed, as the project is our baby and we can decide how we choose to make it, and give it to the customer to choose if they want it or not.
Project Planning	Our Mentor suggested we start coding ASAP because things have to start working. Ideas are good but we need to start trying and failing and troubleshooting.  Plan to be done coding by february so that you can add nice to haves for a month.
Tech Stack choices	Try to Stay away from native applications. progressive web applications are better for cross platforms
3rd party server hosting	Dinesh inquired about using servers and creating it ourselves or using a 3rd party to save time. Craig would suggest doing it ourselves as we have all the control and we decide what sort of security is needed to be in place.
